

Join Us...

For a Thailand National-Level Workshop

Research. Rethink. Resolve.

Operationalizing the Prevention of Gender-Based Violence through Effective Economic Programs and the Safe Provision of Cooking Fuel

A workshop for economic and gender-based violence staff from governments, donor agencies, and NGOs in Thailand to acquire knowledge and hands-on skills necessary to implement and evaluate economic and household energy programs that will reduce displaced women's vulnerability to gender-based violence. The workshop is limited to 25 participants.

January 19-22, 2010 | Bangkok, Thailand

Join us for a participatory four-day national-level workshop that will engage participants in developing market-oriented, context-specific approaches and protection strategies for designing safe and self-reliant livelihood and household interventions for refugees. It will include practice sessions, adapt participant project work plans, and develop a joint action plan to support collaboration and coordination between participants. Participants will have continued access to the Women's Refugee Commission's technical staff for technical assistance through 2011.

Please apply here before December 16th, 2009.

For questions, please contact Dena Batrice, denab@wrcommission.org

Women's Refugee Commission 122 East 42nd Street New York, NY 10168-1289
Tel: 212.551.3115 Fax: 212.551.3180 www.womensrefugeecommission.org